This is a recreation and reminiscence app, not a medical test or treatment.

What is inside

Each area presents one clear idea at a time and always allows a return to Home.

1

Mechanical Puzzles

60 multiple-choice questions across mechanics, submarines, race cars, motorcycles, and 1960s/1970s music culture. Hints and explanations are always available.

2

Interactive Virtual Workshop

Six familiar stations - multimeter, blueprint, wrenches, gears, engine, and toolbox - each with a short fact and challenge.

3

Memory & Conversation

Twelve respectful prompts invite stories without testing memory. There is no correct response and any card can be skipped.

4

Submarines, Cars & Motorcycles

Fifteen fact cards explain machines and engineering at a public, non-sensitive level, with an optional related quiz.

5

Music & Stories

Three original songs made especially for Kenny, eight original narrated stories, transcripts, and music-culture questions.

A good session can be three questions, one story, or a single conversation card. Stopping while the activity still feels pleasant is a success.

Comfort, privacy, and troubleshooting

The Settings page keeps controls predictable and gives caregivers a few practical choices.

Recommended starting settings

- Text size: Large; increase to Extra large or Largest if Kenny leans toward the screen.
- Challenge level: Standard; use Steady on a tiring day or Challenge when he wants harder technical questions.
- Session length: Five questions; three is a good shorter option.
- Speaking speed: About 88 percent for a calm, natural pace.
- Submarine topics: On by default; turn them off any day they are not comfortable.

Privacy by design

No account, ads, camera, or microphone. Progress and Favorites stay in the browser unless a caregiver exports a backup.

Supportive language

Try: 'Take your time,' 'Good thinking,' or 'Want another one?' Avoid treating the activity as a memory examination.

If something does not work

- Make sure the app is open in a current version of Microsoft Edge, not Internet Explorer.
- If sound is quiet, check the laptop volume, then use the song volume control in Settings.
- If a page looks crowded, use the browser's zoom controls or choose a smaller app text size.
- If progress should start fresh, Settings includes Reset local progress. Questions and stories will remain.
- The app can work offline after one online visit. The three songs need an internet connection.

Caregiver check: Kenny should be able to find Home, start one activity, replay instructions, skip a question, and recover from a mistaken click without assistance.
